Solid aluminum fins (from the recoverable SPAROAIR probe vehicle) were originally used for the booster fins. However, after the first vehicle/launcher qualification test the fins were cut down from a 16 inch to a 14 inch span for the reason presented in the Flight Test I subsection.